Parents to petition state education department

Inadequate. With schools set to open, a group of parents is filing complaints with the state over their children's education.

In advance of Monday's opening of public schools, a group of parents is meeting with attorneys from the Public Interest Law Center of Philadelphia to file legal complaints with the state department of education.

"The state constitution mandates a 'thorough and efficient level of education,' so that's what we're challenging," said Helen Gym of Parents United for Public Education, a mother to three students. "We don't even need to use our words. The superintendent himself said he only has enough resources to open 'functional' types of schools. That's just unimaginable."

Gym said stakeholders are just now starting to find out what the so-called "functional" schools will mean for the 138,000 returning students. She said parents have reported massive overcrowding, as well as merging grade levels due to teacher shortages. With the layoffs of nearly 3,000 personnel, libraries are being shuttered and extracurriculars axed. "My daughter lost her music teacher, cross country coach, her dean and her guidance counselor," Gym said.

Adding to the complexity, officials are currently engaged in a complicated tangle of legislative funding packages and contract negotiations involving the city and state legislatures, the state-run school district and the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers union. Gym said such leaders have "completely and utterly" failed schools.

"We're at a time for all this ridiculous stuff that our elected leaders are engaged in right now — all that pettiness, being upset about YouTube videos — that needs to stop," she said. "Everyone needs to focus on making sure schools are open and ready — and they're not right now."

Gym said it's now time for parents, students and educators to take matters into their own hands, which is why she hopes to see the complaints move forward by Monday.

When schools open

They will have:

1 Nurse for every 1,500 students

1 Assistant principal, if the school has more than 850 students, and almost no administrative support if the school has with fewer students

0 Librarians on staff

0 Full-time guidance counselors if the school has under 600 students, meaning about 60 percent will have no counselors

Brand. New website takes advantage of Philly tax breaks

In an effort to lure young technology startups, and to keep many of them in Center City, Mayor Michael Nutter's administration has made tax breaks available.

Nutter welcomed new technology startup Brand.com to the Curtis Center Wednesday, which is another of a handful of technology companies to move to the city within the last year.

Essentially, Brand.com shapes a company's reputation online. The company moved from West Chester.

"Companies are coming here ... growing technology and entrepreneurial communities," Nutter said.

To grow the business environment: "Start with a full exception from the city's business income and receipts tax for the first two years of operation," Nutter said. "If you start in that first year with three employees, and second year with another three, you pay no business taxes here in the city of Philadelphia."

"We waive all fees for qualified businesses from a variety of licenses and regulatory requirements and their commercial activity license," he said. "Starting in 2014, there will be phased in a set of exceptions to the BIAR tax for all businesses across Philadelphia and we're renewing efforts to restart waste tax reductions."

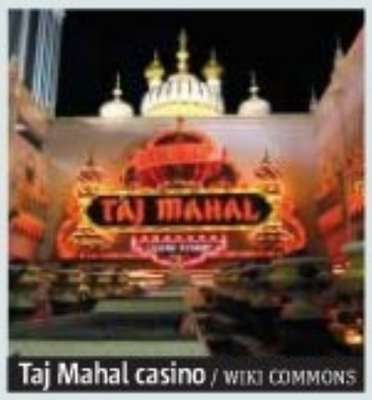
Two Atlantic City casinos to lay off workers

Two of Donald Trump's Atlantic City casinos are laying off hundreds of workers.

The two casinos, the Taj Mahal Casino Resort and Trump Plaza Hotel and Casino, said seasonal summer workers, part-time and on-call workers will be affected, according to spokesman Brian Cahill.



Taj Mahal casino / WIKI COMMONS

"As with many shore businesses and other casino properties post-Labor Day, Trump Taj Mahal and Trump Plaza will be experiencing a reduction in staff and have recalibrated the wages for a small percentage of our on-call and part-time personnel," Cahill said.

"Our full-time employees' pay has not been reduced," Cahill added. "Unfortunately, we need to react to the current market situation."

Revel, another major Atlantic City casino, laid off 115 seasonal workers Thursday, according to the Associated Press. The casino cut 83 jobs in April. TOMMY ROWAN

John murdered, chopped, dumped

Dismemberment. A Northeast man made his last visit to a Center City brothel.

Two prostitutes and their pimp were charged with suffocating 40-year-old Frank Zarzycki, hacking off his head and limbs, stuffing his torso into a trash bag and tossing it into the Schuylkill River, police said during a Sept. 5 press conference.

Keith Tolbert, 34, and his two call girls, 21-year-old Angel Weston and 22-year-old Stephanie Foulke, allegedly planned to rob Zarzycki, of Northeast Philadelphia. But at some point, the plan went awry.

Zarzycki's body was found the morning of Sept. 3 by a fisherman underneath a bridge off the 3700 block of Grays Ferry Avenue.

Police identified the body by a "very distinct tattoo" located on Zarzycki's upper back, said police Capt. James Clark.

Zarzycki had allegedly been a customer at Tolbert's prostitution hub, located inside apartment 26 at the complex at 220 South 11th St. Police said it appears the suspects used a Taser-like device on the victim when he arrived, and then proceeded to accidentally suffocate him to death.

In a panic, police said, Tolbert hacked off the victim's body parts with a hatchet inside a bathroom. Zarzycki was then bagged up, taken to the river and dumped.

The investigation remains ongoing.

Facts

The victim's limbs and head have yet to be found.

- The hatchet-like weapon has not been found.
- Police believe the murder took place on Aug. 26.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING AND PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD PHILADELPHIA HOUSING AUTHORITY

The Philadelphia Housing Authority (PHA) is a participant in the Moving to Work Demonstration Program (MTW). PHA was initially selected to participate in the MTW Program in 2001. In October 2008, PHA entered into an Amended and Restated Moving to Work Agreement ("MTW Agreement") with the US Department of Housing and Urban Development ("HUD"), which has subsequently been further amended.

The MTW Agreement defines the terms and conditions under which PHA is a participant in the MTW Program. The MTW Agreement requires that PHA submit an MTW Annual Plan for HUD review and approval. PHA's current MTW Annual Plan for MTW Year Thirteen (PHA Fiscal Year 2014) was approved by HUD on May 30, 2013.

PHA is seeking public review and comments on two proposed actions relative to the MTW Program:

- Amendment to the MTW Agreement – The proposed amendment to the MTW Agreement will provide PHA with additional flexibility in utilizing Replacement Housing Factor funds received by PHA from HUD.
- Amendment to the MTW Year Thirteen Annual Plan – The proposed amendment to the MTW Annual Plan will: 1) Establish that PHA may apply to convert one or more public housing sites under the Rental Assistance Demonstration Program and that PHA may utilize MTW Block Grant funds to support the conversion; and, 2) Allow PHA to establish a flexible subsidy program for newly developed or acquiredpublic housing units, subject to HUD review and approval of each transaction.

Additional information regarding the proposed amendments is available from PHA. Copies are available for public review on PHA's website at: www.pha.phila.gov under the "Latest News" section or may be picked up at the following locations:

- Housing Choice Voucher Program Office: 2850 Germantown Ave 1st & 2nd Floor
- Scattered Sites Management Offices: 3417 Spring Garden Street, 1821 Vineyard St. 3226 McMichael St., 3218 Susquehanna Avenue, 400 W. Huntingdon St.
- Public Housing Management Offices: Bartram - 5404 Gibson Drive, Wilson Park - 2500 Jackson St., Raymond Rosen – 2110 N. 23rd St., Blumberg - 2311 W. Jefferson St.

PHA residents, Housing Choice Voucher participants and the general public may attend and provide comments at the Public Hearing described below and/or submit written comments on these proposed actions any time during the comment period. The Public Hearing is scheduled for the following time and location: August 27, 2013 10 a.m. until noon, 1100 Poplar Street, Philadelphia, PA 19123, Multipurpose Room.

Only comments pertaining to the proposed actions noted above are being solicited. The comment period begins on August 6, 2013 at 12 noon and ends September 5, 2013 at 12 noon. All comments must be received by the end of the comment period. Please send your writtencomments to: Philadelphia Housing Authority, Office of Policy, Research and Enterprise Planning, Attention: MTW Comment, 1606 Swain St., Philadelphia, PA 19130.

The Public Hearing is being held in an accessible location. If you require assistance, sign language interpreter or other accommodations, please call 215-684-4000. Please use the AT&T Relay Service for TTY.

September is National Preparedness Month and the American Red Cross Southeastern Pennsylvania doesn't want you taking any chances.

Be Prepared!

Here are some actions you can take now to ensure you are ready when disaster strikes:

- Get a Kit. Include enough water, food, clothing, cash and basic supplies to last all family members, including pets, three days.
- Make a Plan. Know what your family plan will be for evacuating. Discuss how you will connect with each other if you are separated.
- Be Informed. Know what disasters are more likely in your area. Heed warnings given by local officials.
- Put Preparedness in Your Pocket. Download the free Red Cross Mobile Apps to have lifesaving preparedness information at your fingertips before and during emergencies.

Facing obstacles. This isn't his first time at the SEPTA Roadeo

Twenty-five years after SEPTA bus operator Zenon John Rinylo won his first Roadeo, he could have win number 21 under his belt.

Rinylo, a 35-year veteran, will compete in the annual SEPTA Bus Roadeo on Saturday, a competition that puts drivers' skills to the test in an 11-course obstacle challenge. The winner competes at the state and national levels. The stakes are high this year; SEPTA is the defending champion. And if anyone can do it, it's Rinylo.

"It's very difficult," Rinylo said of the competition.

But it's not too difficult for this Turnersville, N.J. resident; he's managed to bank 20 local competition wins, a dozen state wins and two national titles. He calls his first 1988 win memorable. "I liked the adrenaline rush."

The course features obstacles to overcome and earn points. Any mistakes? Points are deducted. Judges watch for smoothness of operation, use of turn signals, proper vehicle checks and more.

Just don't get nervous, Rinylo said. "You're your own worst enemy when you're nervous."

CHRISTINA PACIOLLA

The course

An obstacle Rinylo calls fun is driving the 40-foot bus through a set of tennis balls strategically placed 12 feet apart with widths just wider than the two back tires of the bus.

- Drivers must navigate through the tennis balls without touching any of them.

Anger management. Police: Road rage to blame for shooting

A man was shot in his wrist during an altercation in an apparent incident of road rage in Southwest Philadelphia late Wednesday.

The shooting happened at about 11:35 p.m. at 64th Street and Grays Avenue, according to police. A 37-year-old man was pistol-whipped, punched in his face and shot in his wrist. He was hospitalized in stable condition.

A suspect was taken into custody. The shooting suspect, a 48-year-old man, told police he shot the man only after he had been attacked. Police recovered a .40-caliber Smith & Wesson handgun from the suspect.

The 48-year-old man told police the other man crashed into his vehicle and attempted to flee the scene. He followed the vehicle to 64th Street and Grays Avenue, where he claims the 37-year-old man attacked him.

Obama's plan on Syria hinges on 'undecideds' in Congress

President Obama / GETTY IMAGES

Tough road. The administration continues to lobby for supporters on both sides of the aisle.

The fate of a U.S. congressional resolution to authorize a military strike against Syria is in the hands of dozens of lawmakers from both parties who are so far publicly undecided on how they will vote.

With many Democrats non-committal, it could come down to President Barack Obama's ability to persuade normally loyal liberals in his own party to stick with him.

Memories of the protracted wars in Iraq and Afghanistan are still fresh in their minds, leaving many of both parties worried that a military strike will lead to a longer and larger engagement in Syria.

Recognizing this, the White House is focused on drawing distinctions between limited plans for Syria, tailored to the apparent use of chemical weapons by the government of President Bashar al-Assad, and those decade-long wars that followed the attacks on New York and Washington on Sept. 11, 2001.

"This is not open ended, this is not boots on the ground," deputy national security adviser Tony Blinken said Thursday on MSNBC before heading off to Capitol Hill to brief lawmakers.

"This is not Iraq. It's not Afghanistan. It's not even Libya," he said, referring to the intervention by the U.S. and allies in Libya in March 2011, which ultimately led to the overthrow of Libyan leader Muammar Gaddafi. REUTERS

Resolution

Obama cancels Calif. trip to work on Syria vote: White House

President Barack Obama has canceled a trip to California next week so that he can stay in Washington "to work on the Syrian resolution before Congress," a White House official said on Thursday.

Obama has asked Congress to authorize a military strike in Syria after a chemical weapons attack on civilians two weeks ago, but many lawmakers from both parties have said they are undecided on whether to support the president's request.

Conflict

Kerry portrait of rebels at odds with intelligence reports

Secretary of State John Kerry's public assertions that moderate Syrian opposition groups are growing in influence appear to be at odds with estimates by U.S. and European intelligence sources and nongovernmental experts, who say Islamic extremists remain by far the fiercest and best-organized rebel elements. The history of Riddick

'Pitch Black'

(2000)
Then not very well known, Diesel played the most prominent of an ensemble cast trapped on a hostile planet. After an accident forces them to land, Diesel's convict Riddick proves the reluctant hero to the few who survive.

'The Chronicles of Riddick'

(2004)
Now a mega-star, Diesel gambled that everyone was clamoring for more Riddick. Released concurrently were the animated short "Dark Fury" and this $120-million space opera, featuring no less than Judi Dench. It does poorly at the box office.

'Riddick'

Nine years later, Riddick gets revived, because Diesel is now in popular movies again (i.e., the "Fast & Furious" films). Stripped down, it's a return in many ways to the first.

With "Riddick," the threequel to a series that began with "Pitch Black," Vin Diesel is looking to repeat the success he had reviving his "Fast & Furious" franchise. (He's shooting the seventh installment right after "Riddick" is released.) And if this second revival works, it just might open the doors for his long-awaited "Hannibal" film. And maybe he'll even squeeze in a Marvel film somewhere.

If this revival takes off, will it feel like a complete vindication for you? Like an "I told you so" to the industry?
Totally, totally. We're keeping our fingers crossed, but totally. And it will do what it intended to do, which is to reopen that universe. That's the real intention. That's why we were able to go independent, that's why we didn't spend $200 million like every other Hollywood production. How anxious and how committed the studio will be to actually do the next one will depend on how it performs.

You were teasing people recently that you might be signing onto a Marvel project.
Have I been teasing? [Laughs] If the world wants to focus on a [Facebook] cover-photo change that happens on a Sunday afternoon for less than an hour while D23 is pumping out all the publicity in the world, that's fun, I guess. I don't know if it was so deliberate or if it was just kind of trying to let the social media base in as much as possible without totally disregarding the Marvel policy.

What about your long-planned Hannibal project?
You know, yesterday I was lucky enough to be the recipient of the 2,504th star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame, and even the night before getting the star, I was thinking, "Am I really ready for this star? I haven't done [Hannibal] yet. Why are they giving me this? Don't they have to wait until that trilogy comes out? This makes no sense." But all of these victories for Universal Studios gets me one step closer to traversing the Alps.

You've been holding out for this for so long.
It's embarrassing how long. You know, I've been talking about it so long that even five years ago I would have a little anxiety about doing press because I knew everyone was going to say to me, "Where is this 'Hannibal' you've been promising? Come on, this is bullsh—!" "But I'm doing 'Fast' ... " "I don't want to hear it!" [Laughs]

GETTY IMAGES

Another view

You're certainly reaping the rewards of reviving all these properties.
Right now I'm so booked. For the first time, I can see multiple pictures into the future, which is kind of one of the chief factors with Marvel. As much as our meeting was about them presenting the idea of a new [intellectual property] for their third phase, after Comic-Con and after people really did have a frenzy and did kind of get whisked away with the Marvel conversation, they came up with a concept that wouldn't call for me to have to shoot for six months but would be a way to service those crossover fans — my fans and Marvel's fans and where they cross over. It would be a way for them to satisfy this desire for something to happen now.

Is there any progress in the development?
Very much so. I would suspect that you'll hear something from Universal shortly. After all, if you've been following my social media, for the last four years there's kind of been unspoken multiple promises, three wishes. The first was the return of Letty [Michelle Rodriguez's character in "Fast & Furious"] against all odds, the second was the revitalizing of Riddick and that franchise and the third is "Hannibal." So we've got two, and we have to hold fast and be strong and we will complete that promise.

That would be quite the hat trick.
It's the ultimate hat trick. And I told Universal, "I want to be able to invite my 80-year-old father to the premiere. We can't wait too long. He has to see this movie."

Kathryn Hahn is an awesome actress

Dramedy. It's too bad her first leading film is the pretty awful "Afternoon Delight."

Juno Temple and Kathryn Hahn play a hooker and a yuppie in "Afternoon Delight." / FILM ARCADE

Review

'Afternoon Delight'

Director: Jill Soloway

Stars: Kathryn Hayn, Juno Temple

Rating: R

In "Afternoon Delight," it's never completely clear why harried 30-something mom Rachel (Kathryn Hahn) rescues, then employs as nanny to her young son, a troubled stripper known as McKenna (Juno Temple), whom she met while getting a joke lap dance. But for the longest time it certainly doesn't look like this troubled girl exists solely to help our yuppie lead through a rough patch, to be unceremoniously discarded as soon as she's served her purpose. Surely, this movie — written and directed by Jill Soloway, the showrunner of "United States of Tara" and a legend among female performers — would be smarter than that.

It's not, but the possibility that it might be smart — that the film won't succumb to a third-act shift that ruins everything that came before it — gives it the illusion of quality. For a while it's not a product of cloistered wealth but also a lampoon of it. Rachel opens the film with first-world-problem guilt, pointing out to her therapist (Jane Lynch) that women getting raped in Darfur have actual issues. Rachel has minor, but still hurtful ones. Her marriage to a spineless manboy (Josh Radnor) has turned sexless. She's found herself stuck hanging with other, far more controlling moms.

McKenna arrives to help Rachel — partly to make her feel charitable, partly to give her sex tips and encourage the mid-day dalliances immortalized in the titular song. For a while the film treats her without judgment, even seems to admire her. But once a curious Rachel accompanies McKenna on a job, and emerges considerably freaked out, both Rachel and the film turn on her. It's a cruel and unexpected move, and nothing in the rest of the film suggests this is meant as satire about yuppie cluelessness.

Soloway has a terrific sense of humor, and "Delight," even after it turns evil, still teems with throwaway lines and insights. (There's also a wine-soaked party scene where Rachel makes creepily hilarious jokes about the abortions she had in her youth.)

It also has Hahn. A hugely talented actress, currently seen groping Jennifer Aniston in "We're the Millers," she's a fearless comic performer, throwing herself at roles and subsequently stealing the likes of "Step Brothers," "Parks and Recreation" and the underloved "How Do You Know." Thrust from supporting to lead, she gives an alert, alive performance where every one of her constant thoughts makes it to her face in consistently engaging ways. She deserves so much better.

Bringing out the dead

Sci-fi action. Vin Diesel literally and figuratively resurrects a defeated character in "Riddick."

Vin Diesel (with Katee Sackhoff and Matt Nable) returns to an old, presumed-dead franchise with "Riddick." / UNIVERSAL PICTURES

The first thing we see of Vin Diesel's titular character in "Riddick" — whose full name, it must be stated, is Richard B. Riddick — is his forearm sticking out of a pile of rocks. This is the rubble left in the wake of "The Chronicles of Riddick," a bloated mega-sequel that attempted to take a breakout character in a surprise B-movie hit (2000's "Pitch Black") and fit him with a "Star Wars"-dense mythology. It didn't take, hence our lead symbolically and actually resurrecting himself.

The lesson is: Know who you are. In the case of Riddick (and to an extent, Diesel), he's a growling anti-hero with funky eyes who needs to be in low-rent programmers, not tentpole franchises. The relatively cheap (and sometimes relatively cheap-looking), Judi Dench-less threequel treats its predecessor to a quickie flashback (presumably because still few have seen it), then tries something different. The first act is a survivalist tale, with Riddick stranded alone on another dangerous planet. Wounded, he fixes a broken leg the hard way, befriends a dog and beats down slimy, hungry beasties, one who gobbles up its freshly disemboweled intestines.

This long sequence has no dialogue, just some Riddick narration. It's not clear who he's talking to, given that he hates everyone, presumably his ticket-buying viewers, too. He definitely hates two groups of bickering bounty hunters. Hipped to his presence, they travel to the planet, one seeking his head in a box.

It takes a long time for "Riddick" to figure out what story it wants to tell. Riddick himself almost entirely leaves the picture for a good half-hour, treated as a ghost toying with his pursuers — all men with one woman, played by "Battlestar Galactica"'s Katee Sackhoff. (Ignore the feminist angle of a tough, open lesbian among the dudes: Her name, Dahl, makes it sounds like everyone's calling her "doll," and her sexuality aside, she'll gladly straddle our star, even after he makes a rape joke.)

Series director David Twohy was last seen with the nifty "The Perfect Getaway," which turned on a major and shockingly robust twist. Here the twist is that it's all been leading up to a not-bad retread of "Pitch Black"'s monster onslaught. It's not clear where else to take the character. He's an old-fashioned taciturn loner, but his hatred of everyone is monotonous. Then again, like "Pitch Black," it shares DNA with old westerns, plus boasts some of the most colorful dialogue in awhile. When one baddie (Jordi Molla) says something or other about "unicorn asses," most is forgiven.

Cheer up, Audrey Tautou!

Classic lit movie.
The "Amelie" star goes mega-glummy as an unhappy wife in "Therese."

Audrey Tautou is really, really unhappy in "Therese."
MPI MEDIA GROUP

Like many made huge by a single, memorable performance, Audrey Tautou has tried like mad to avoid pigeonholing. Her post-"Amelie" career has been a succession of roles nothing like the wide-eyed gamine with perfect hair. If she seemed strident in "Coco Before Chanel," that's nothing on how profoundly unhappy she is throughout "Therese."

Based on Francois Mauriac's 1927 novel "Therese Desqueyroux," it casts her as a smart, independent woman who marries the oblivious Bernard (Gilles Lellouche) for money and instantly regrets it. Therese's friend and Bernard's sister Anne (Anais Demoustier) does find passionate love, with a strapping Jewish man (Stanley Weber). This enrages Anne's family, because they're rabid anti-Semites. It enrages Therese because she's jealous. Soon she's secretly upping the arsenic in Bernard's daily medication, hoping for a way out.

Mauriac's novel was previously filmed in 1962, with "Amour"'s Emmanuelle Riva in the lead, and directed by Georges Franju, of the magnificently cold and Gothic horror film "Eyes Without a Face." Franju's approach was to play the film in a more arch tone, almost as a dark comedy. Late director Claude Miller gives it a gentle, graceful, pastoral quality that's pure taste. He's a very exacting director: Each shot feels immaculately chosen and is held for exactly as long as it should be. But what could be called a "generic classic lit" approach isn't ideal for a mordant tale.

And Tautou, try as she might, is no ice queen. She lets her puckered lips and harsh, narrow face freeze into a permanent scowl, but instead of a woman eaten away by the cruelties of a backwards age, she simply looks like a pissed-off teenager.

Repertory roundup. Get lost in the lengthy films of a French great

There are directors who made longer films than Jacques Rivette, but few who have made as many incredibly long films. Rivette's "Out 1" runs 15 ½ hours. "L'Amour Fou," his 1968 chronicle of a crumbling marriage (inspired by Jean-Luc Godard and Anna Karina), runs "only" four. "Fou" screens this weekend with Rivette's most famous (and most playful) work, "Celine and Julie Go Boating" (3 1/2 hours) and the recently restored "Le Pont Du Nord" (just over two!).

O Canada! World cinema goes north

Movies. Here are the hottest tickets at this year's Toronto Film Festival.

Sandra Bullock hangs weightlessly in "Gravity," playing at this year's Toronto Film Festival. / WARNER BROS. PICTURES

With 288 feature films screening as part of the 2013 Toronto International Film Festival, it would be physically impossible to see them all. With that in mind, here are the films showing at TIFF this year that we're most excited about.

'Gravity' Those who've already seen Alfonso Cuaron's terrifying deep-space saga — starring Sandra Bullock and George Clooney as astronauts set adrift — don't describe how good it was as much as they let their jaws drop and eyes bug out. Needless to say, we can't wait.

'August: Osage County' The dysfunctional Broadway smash by Tracy Letts makes the jump to the big screen with an embarrassment of acting talent, bringing together Meryl Streep, Julia Roberts, Viola Davis, Benedict Cumberbatch, Ewan McGregor and Chris Cooper for the most awkward of family gatherings.

'12 Years a Slave' "Shame" director Steve McQueen calls upon an all-star cast — including Michael Fassbender, Brad Pitt and Benedict Cumberbatch — to level unspeakable cruelty at the always wonderful Chiwetel Ejiofor in this dark, searing epic about a free African-American man sold into slavery in the pre-Civil War U.S.

Must see

Blue is the Warmest Color'

The Cannes champion — about two young women in love — allows North Americans to finally see the lived-in performances by stars Lea Seydoux and Adele Exarchopoulos.

Adele Exarchopoulos and Lea Seydoux won at Cannes for "Blue is the Warmest Color." / WILD BUNCH

'Mandela: Long Walk to Freedom' Idris Elba takes on the South African leader's biography in this prestige pick that should finally confirm for mainstream movie audiences what fans of "The Wire" and "Luther" have known for years: that Elba is a force of nature. Bond's new Moneypenny, Naomie Harris, co-stars as Winnie Mandela.

'You Are Here' "Mad Men" mastermind Matthew Weiner makes his feature directorial debut with this road movie featuring Owen Wilson and Zach Galifianakis as lifelong friends beckoned back to their home town by an inheritance from one of the men's estranged father.

'The Double' Richard Ayoade, who last directed the charming indie "Submarine," offers up this bizarre feature — loosely based on the novella by Fyodor Dostoevsky — starring Jesse Eisenberg as a man driven insane by the appearance of his doppelganger.

'Kill Your Darling' John Krokidas presents the Beat Generation at its inception — and the murder that nearly derailed the literary movement. Daniel Radcliffe, Jack Huston and Ben Foster give bravura performances as Allen Ginsberg, Jack Kerouac and William S. Burroughs, respectively, alongside scene-stealer Dane DeHaan as trouble-maker Lucien Carr.

'Prisoners' The script for this dramatic thriller made the Black List in 2009, but the film itself got held up on its way to audiences. Apparently it was worth the wait, as early responses to the film, starring Hugh Jackman and Jake Gyllenhaal, have been rapturous.

'Dallas Buyers' Club' Matthew McConaughey littered 2012 with some eclectic and engaging performances — in the likes of "Magic Mike," "Killer Joe" and "Bernie" — but all of that was a mere prelude to this easy awards contender, in which he plays a 1980s AIDS patient trying to work around the U.S. health care system.

A different kind of alternative music

Mugham. Jeffrey Werbock plays the kamancha, tar and oud at the Rotunda.

Catch a rare performance by Jeffrey Werbock at the Rotunda.
PROVIDED

For Philly-born musician Jeffrey Werbock, the timing was right when he discovered the traditional music of Azerbaijan in the early 1970s.

"Along with the social movement which resulted in the Summer of Love and Woodstock," Werbock recalls, "there was a minority of musicians and composers who were searching for alternative music to listen to. Some of us had been deeply touched by the idea that there are ancient traditions that we in the Western world are somewhat cut off from."

Werbock had first heard of Azerbaijani mugham in an obscure book, a "spiritual travelogue by a mystic philosopher from the Caucasus." After moving to L.A. in 1971, he met an elderly musician from Daghestan "by pure luck," as he describes. "Some people feel an element of fate, but I'm cautious about that."

The encounter has shaped Werbock's life and career for more than four decades. The old man played the kamancha, a traditional bowed instrument, and Werbock says, "as he drew the bow across the strings, I was completely galvanized by the quality of the sound and his way of entering into the music with his whole body. I'd never experienced such a current of musical passion from such minimal notes."

Tonight, Werbock will attempt to communicate that same passion to an audience at the Rotunda as he talks about and performs a program of mugham on the kamancha, tar and oud. Most of his playing these days is done in the classroom, making this a rare opportunity.

Coming up for air at Fringe Fest

Autoteatro. Be both audience and actor at these four shows.

For many theatergoers, the mere words "audience participation" are enough to induce a cold sweat and a search for the nearest exit. Theater-maker Ant Hampton's shows largely avoid that anxiety by making the performers comprise the entire audience and vice versa, via a technique he refers to as "autoteatro." In "Etiquette," which was part of the 2008 Live Arts festival, two participants were fed lines through a headset while seated in a coffee shop; in "The Quiet Volume," in this year's rechristened FringeArts fest, two people are given instructions via recorded whispers and written words while paging through books at the Free Library.

"The difference between autoteatro and what people are commonly scared of in terms of participation is that with autoteatro, there's nobody around who knows what should be happening," Hampton says. "If you make a mistake or you're feeling self-conscious, you know there's nobody looking at you thinking, 'Thank god it's not me.' Therefore there's more charm to it than cruelty."

"The Quiet Volume" opens Sept. 7. For dates of all Fringe Festival shows; to buy tickets go to www.fringearts.com. / LORENA FERNANDEZ

Like "Etiquette," the new show also plays on the tension between private and public space, as the small-scale performance unfolds in a library during regular hours, surrounded by people going about their normal business.

"Once you start reading, you enter into your own hermetic bubble of concentration," Hampton says. "Anyone who's spent any time in the library knows what it's like to come up for air from reading a book and realize where you are. In this piece, what's strange is that this bubble of concentration is pierced and leaks into the bubble of the person beside you. This is quite an unusual, maybe even perverse, experience."

In "The Living Newspaper: On Location," Liz Magic Laser asks viewers to join actors in reenactments of the day's newspaper headlines. Comedian Matt Holmes chooses a different partner from the crowd each night to co-star in "Matt&." And Nichole Canuso Dance Company's "The Garden" commingles audience members and performers in a self-guided journey prompted by an individual soundscape.

1 Just what is going on with Lamar Odom?

The Internet was abuzz on Thursday with the news that troubled Kardashian manpiece Lamar Odom had checked himself into rehab in order to save his marriage to Kourtney Kardashian. It's not been the best month for Odom — numerous reports have surfaced that he cheated on KK with a stripper and he's come clean about his addiction to Oxycontin, Ambien and cocaine — but not before he was arrested for a DUI last week in California (so maybe add "alcohol" to that list, Lamar?).

But then TMZ.com came out with the bombshell that Odom is nowhere near a rehab center and Kourtney has heard nothing from him. So where-oh-where is Odom? Who knows? If only someone would create a show called "Keeping up with the Kardashians" so we could keep tabs.

Talking points

Gaga's new resolution

Part of Lady Gaga's evolution as a pop star includes learning to go outside more. The singer tells the Guardian that she used to think she needed to stay in hiding to maintain her image. "I hid in my house … to preserve my image as a superstar to my fans," she tells the newspaper. "I don't mean I am a superstar, I mean that they only ever see me at my best. And it really drove me crazy. So I've really had to make more of an effort to go out more. I mean, can you imagine what it's like not to feel real wind? Honestly, I hadn't felt real wind for years."

Naomi Watts' time on tour

Naomi Watts is apparently not having the best time on her current press tour for "Diana," in which she plays the late Princess of Wales during the final years of her life. Watts apparently cut short an interview with British radio host Simon Mayo, though it's unclear what prompted her early exit. "Naomi Watts walked out of an interview. She seemed a tad uncomfortable with the questions. Shame," Mayo posted to Twitter, later insisting to responders that he had "no idea" what riled her so much. Watts' camp has not responded.

2 Who is ScarJo's new fiance?

Aren't all Frenchmen slightly mysterious? But Scarlett Johansson's latest fiance, Romain Dauriac, is especially so.

So who is Dauriac despite the tastiest piece of Francophile Hollywood arm candy since Benjamin Millepied? Alternate reports have him as a journalist, the head of a creative agency and an advertising director. Whoever he is, he has excellent taste: Johansson, 28, recently showed off her ginormous vintage Art Deco engagement ring at the Venice Film Festival.

SCARLETT JOHANSSON

The actress' rep confirms the engagement to E! News, saying that the pair are "very happy."

They haven't chosen a wedding date yet, the rep says. The couple first went public with their coupling last November.

3 Amazing 'Fifty Shades' petition on Change.org

Not everyone was thrilled with the announcement about the casting for the new "50 Shades of Grey" movie. Fans of the steamy book have now launched a petition to have the roles recast with their choices, Alexis Bledel and Matt Bomer. "Matt Bomer is the PERFECT DESCRIPTION OF CHRISTIAN GREY AND ALEXIS BLEDEL IS THE PERFECT ACTRESS TO REPRESENT ANASTASIA STEELE and if THEY ARE NOT, NOBODY WILL BE," the levelheaded petition on Change.org reads. "I read the whole trilogy and I can assure that Matt is the perfect actor for this movie and Alexis too. So please PLEASE, all of the GREYsessed and Bomerettes in the world NEED those actors. They always will be for us the Christian Grey and Anastasia Steele. WE CAN DO ANYTHING GUYS, ANYTHING." The petition has already pulled in more than 18,000 supporters.

You know what makes powerful Hollywood movie execs change their minds? BY WRITING DEMANDS ON THE INTERNET ALL IN CAPS.

Horoscope

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Don't put off anything that will bring you closer to your goal. Call in favors that could help you.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22. Consider what isn't working in your life and begin the process that will lead to peace of mind. Don't hesitate to give someone else the control.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21. A geographical change will spark enthusiasm and inspiration. You may need to negotiate with someone who could greatly help your cause.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22-Dec. 21. Be secretive about your plans. Strategize carefully. You can come out on top, but your timing must be faultless.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan 20. Don't let your emotions stand between you and success. Someone you love may sabotage your plans if you have been neglectful of them.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20. You're in a good cycle for contracts. An unusual path could be the one to take to reach your objective.

♈ Aries | March 21-April 20. Consider a certain change, but don't jump in too quickly. You aren't likely to get what you want if you are restless and impatient.

♉ Taurus | April 21-May 21. Keep things moving along. Stubbornness will be what stands between you and success. A practical approach to a job will help you avoid complaints and interference.

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20. Travel and communication will inspire you. The fresh ideas may seem challenging at first, but you'll find a way to make it happen.

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22. If you invite friends over to enjoy the comfort of your home, you will be able to successfully ask for favors and support.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22. Not everyone will agree with your choices, but you have to do what's best for you. Be receptive in the face of criticism, but trust yourself. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Scarlett, no one gives a damn

Re: 'Johansson supports Hillary Clinton in 2016' (Metro, Sept. 4) Who cares what an uninformed Scarlett Johansson thinks! What could be more insulting to the intelligence of women in general than to support Hillary primarily BECAUSE she is a woman — especially given her record of opportunistically turning a blind eye to her own husband's use and abuse of others of her own sex.
ROBERT GLASSER, VIA EMAIL

Metro's gone subversive

I was repulsed by your odious front page of the Tuesday issue provocatively and defiantly written in Spanish. Are you trying to encourage these all-too-numerous foreigners who refuse to use English? It's bad enough that there are plenty of these disloyal people here, but to encourage them? Has the Metro turned into a communist rag, encouraging so-called "Citizens of the World"?
ED GOLDSMITH, VIA EMAIL

Keep calm and consult the Web

Re: 'A picture's only worth a thousand English words' (Metro, Sept. 4) It was simple Spanish, easy enough that a reasonable person would say, "Hey, this is an opportunity for me to learn a little about a foreign language" (I certainly brushed up on my Spanish!). It was a cool way for the paper to highlight its international reach and a great way to show everyone, hey, there are lots of people out there, and the land of the free and the home of the brave embraces all of them.

Union happy to share spotlight with Phillies

MLS. The club is cross promoting at Citizens Bank Park as interest grows for franchise.

Hackworth is used to soccer fields, not baseball diamonds. / GETTY IMAGES

Union manager John Hackworth is used to pacing the sidelines of the pitch, waiting for the right moment to make a tactical move for his team's success.

Yet, during Wednesday's cross-promotional night between the Phillies and Union at Citizens Bank Park, Hackworth dealt with a different kind of pitch, one from the mound to the plate in front of 30,000-plus fans.

"We were joking around with him at practice [Wednesday] and gave him a water bottle to throw and it didn't look too good," said Union defender Sheanon Williams. "Hopefully, he'll stay off the SportsCenter Not Top 10 list."

Hackworth did make it over the plate into the outstretched arms of the Phillie Phanatic. It symbolized the growth of the Union franchise into Philadelphia's elite over the past three years.

"It's great to have the teams mix with each other," said Williams. "We had some of their guys down at our stadium the other week. Any time you can promote your team and your sport in the city that you play in is a tremendous opportunity. We want more and more people to get into soccer and come to the games."

The Union as a team have shown tremendous growth. They sit fourth in the Eastern Conference at 10-8-9 and just three points out of first place. The team looks solid from top to bottom.

"The growth is just astronomical," said Allison MacNeill, a member of Major Molly's Army, a group of young women who serve as ambassadors for the Union. "Seeing [Sebastien] Le Toux and [Jack] McInerney working together and the bench getting deeper and deeper each year is proof. Now players are fighting for their spots and that's when you start to see the most growth on the field."

Phillies fans were happy to sign autographs with Union players and pose for pictures. One handed the team a baseball to sign.

The club hopes to draw in a few of them for the team's final three home games.

Tennis legends call Williams 'greatest'

Tennis. Chris Evert and Billie Jean King weigh in on Serena Williams' greatness and tennis legacy.

Serena Williams may be the greatest female player of all time. / GETTY IMAGES

Serena Williams is playing arguably the most dominant tennis of her career and stands two victories from her fifth U.S. Open championship and her 17th major title.

The top-seeded Williams faces No. 5 Li Na in one semifinal Friday.

If Serena wins the championship, she would tie Roger Federer with 17 Grand Slams and move within one of Chris Evert and Martina Navratilova, who won 18 apiece, tying her for fourth all-time among women. Margaret Court is the all-time leader with 24 majors.

But while there is debate about whether Federer is the greatest male player of all time, the chorus is increasingly singing Serena's praises as the greatest woman.

"First of all, I think she's the greatest tennis player that we've ever seen up until this point," Evert said on ESPN while Williams was destroying Carla Suarez Navarro in the Open quarters. "Maybe 20 years from now somebody else will come out, but she's the greatest tennis player."

Evert went on to add: "As far as the greatest record, she doesn't have the greatest record. Margaret Court has the greatest record. Steffi Graf (22 Grand Slams) has a better record, and Serena's the first to admit that."

Yes, she is.

"I think still right now, I go by numbers," Williams said. "I don't think I'm the greatest because Steffi has way more Grand Slams than me."

Billie Jean King (12 majors in the Open Era) added a similar sentiment in a TV interview.

"If Serena keeps going, she's probably going to be the greatest player ever to have lived," King said. "But right at this moment I'm a big believer in that every generation gets better, so Serena, should be, could be, the best that's ever lived."

Teammates get into brawl at practice

NFL. Riley Cooper and Cary Williams got into a scuffle Thursday during 1-on-1 drills.

Riley Cooper got into a fight Thursday on the practice field with teammate Cary Williams. Several Eagles players were involved, including Mike Vick, who stepped in to break up the scuffle.

Cooper said the incident had nothing to do with the racial slur he made at a Kenny Chesney concert.

"There was a lot of contact at the top of the route," Cooper said. "Nothing happened."

Williams was covering Cooper in 1-on-1 drills when the fight broke out. Brandon Boykin broke up the scrum, but Williams kept shouting and walking toward Cooper. Ultimately, Vick had to restrain Williams.
